

CURRICULUM VITAE

Mohit Mukherji
mohitmukherji.github.io

(267) 323-8701

EDUCATION

PhD, New York University 2022 – present
Cognition & Perception program
Department of Psychology
Advisor: Dr. Moira Dillon

B.A., Temple University 2018 – 2022
Psychology and Philosophy
Graduation with Psychology Honors
Magna cum laude

WORK EXPERIENCE

Instructor for Developmental Psychology Summer 2025
New York University
Instructor of record for undergraduate course in developmental psychology.

Course Assistant for Lab in Developmental Psychology Spring 2023
New York University
Instructor: Dr. Moira Dillon
Course assistant for undergraduate course covering research methods in cognitive development. I graded assignments, held weekly office hours to meet with students, and helped conduct in-class activities.

Undergraduate intern August 2020 – May 2022
Research in Spatial Cognition (RISC) Lab, Temple University
PI: Dr. Thomas F. Shipley | Graduate student mentor: Rebekah Banerjee
Helped run experiments and collect data, presented research at lab meetings, and developed a study for an honors thesis.

Student instructor October 2019 – May 2022
STEM Education Network, Temple University

Reading instructor for students in grades 6-8th at STEM Education summer camps and extracurricular school programs throughout the school year.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND AWARDS

Global Merit Scholarship	Temple University
Conwell Scholarship	Temple University
Dean's list	(Fall 2018, Fall 2019 to Spring 2022)
Clifford M. Kliger Memorial Award	Department of Psychology, Temple University
Ira Lawrence Family Award	Department of Philosophy, Temple University

PAPERS

Mukherji, M., & Dillon, M.R. (submitted). Infant inferences from gaze underlie adult concepts of persons.

Mukherji, M., & Dillon, M.R. (2025). Taking the C-nic route: Object-directedness and path, not efficiency, shape adults' word extension. Proceedings of the 47th Annual Meeting of the Cognitive Science Society. Ithaca, NY.

Arnold, S.H., Mukherji, M., & Rhodes, M. (2024). Not all generics are created equal: Differentiating between 'do' and 'can' generic statements. Proceedings of the 46th Annual Meeting of the Cognitive Science Society. Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

PRESENTATIONS

Mukherji, M., & Dillon, M. R. (2025). Taking the C-nic route: Object-directedness and path, not efficiency, shape adults' word extension. Talk presented at the 47th Annual Meeting of the Cognitive Science Society. San Francisco, CA.

Mukherji, M., Mandelbaum, E., & Rhodes, M. (2025). Mechanisms of belief fixation in childhood. Poster presented at the Society for Philosophy and Psychology. Ithaca, NY.

Arnold, S., Mukherji, M., & Rhodes, M. (2025). Examining the efficacy of a common response to stereotypical generics. Talk presented at the Society for Philosophy and Psychology. Ithaca, NY.

Mukherji, M., & Dillon, M.R. (2024). Infant inferences from gaze underlie adult concepts of persons. Poster presented at the Society for Philosophy and Psychology. West Lafayette, IN.

Cordio, S., Mukherji, M., Leshin, R., & Rhodes, M. (2024). The development of androcentrism. Poster presented at the Society for Philosophy and Psychology. West Lafayette, IN.

Mukherji, M., & Dillon, M.R. (2024). Noun-label extension reflects another's intentional actions but not their efficiency. Poster accepted at Boston University Conference for Language Development. Boston, MA.